Education — a big part of our life

A student prepares to do some laboratory work.

Another important part of this year was our education. Taking time out to plan for the future is hard work. Choosing the right courses each semester is confusing at times. Then there's six weeks tests, which can be hazardous to one's health. Each classification worked hard to bring their goals within reaching distance.

Seniors were busy taking the last of their required classes, ordering their caps and gowns and announcements. Then there was planning for college or work for the future, and making the best of their last school year.

Junior class members were spending their time going to important classes like government, and ordering their class rings. Most important of all,

they were preparing for their Senior year.

Even though the school was new to sophomores, they found their way around campus quickly, despite the confusion.

Choir members, directed by Lisa Quezada, performed for their parents at a special open house.

Oral reports, while this student is giving, were often dreaded by students, but helped give us confidence.

Days are mixture of fun, learning

Activities on Fridays and Saturdays consisted of grouping with friends for a burger and fries at a fast food place then maybe a movie or a party afterwards. When Sunday arrived, everyone thought about the long Monday that waited ahead

All of these great times happened during a typical school year from start to finish. The reality of actually being there doing these things during the year can never be relived

Double Vision captures these precious moments which can never be relived and is a lasting record to remind us of this school year which will never be forgotten

Just as each year is different from the rest, our vision of each year is also different. We could almost say we have a double vision — the actuality and the memory

Home away from home

School, in a natural sense, is our "home away from home." This cliché refers to the time we spend here, friends and sometimes even teachers, become our "second family." At the least, we spend one third of our day at this "second home," and for some the day tends to be even longer.

The Andress campus has the reputation of having one of the most spacious and beautiful quadangles in the city. Among the newest additions to our campus, though some may not realize it, is our library, which was built six years ago

Queen Ceci reigns

Homecoming Queen Cecilia Carbajal involved herself in many activities. She was in cheerleading, FTA, and served as treasurer for the Future Secretaries Association. After graduation, Cecilia plans to go to San Jose State University in California, where she will major in business, and take a jazz dance class in her spare time.

When Cecilia was asked how she felt the night of Homecom ing, she smiled and started to laugh, and then replied, "It was a dream come true, as if I was a movie star." Cecilia later said that she was proud to be chosen Homecoming Queen.

Cecilia was crowned by Miss Teresa Pena, principal, on Oct. 22 at the Homecoming game and was honored at a dance Oct. 23 at the top of the Inn of the Downtown Holiday Inn.

Action — filled week

It all began on Monday which consisted of Hat Day, Deely Boppers, the Life Saver Pass, and the Balloon Stomp.

Tuesday we had Punk Day. Students went wild dressing up. They also had a live band in front of the quadrangle.

Wednesday, rock T-shirts were worn for concert T-shirt day. We also had our Toilet Paper Roll, the Egg Toss, and at night we had the traditional Lighting of the A.

Thursday, students got so hung up on Malibu Day that they forgot all about the afternoon activities, but they did decorate the buildings that night.

Friday everyone dressed up in our school colors for Maroon and Gold Day. We had a big pep assembly and we recognized our queen and her court. To end the day we had our big game. At half-time our queen and her court approached the field and the queen was crowned.

Then our varsity football team defeated the Bowie Bears 27 to 20. To finish off the week we had our Homecoming Dance on Saturday, the perfect ending to a perfectly exciting week.

Carmen Ortiz reigns over Andress Aglow

Out of the twenty-six girls running for the honor, the 1982-83 Andress Aglow Queen title was presented to Carmen Ortiz.

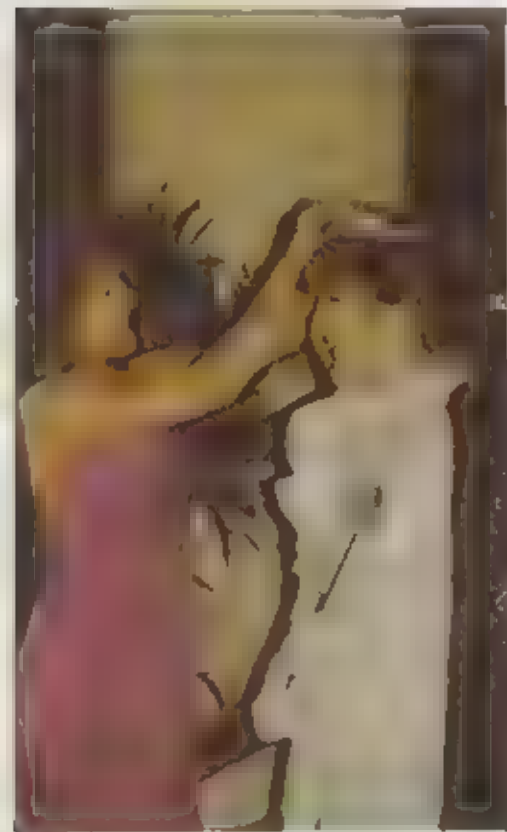

Each girl represented an organization from which they were chosen to run for this title. However, before they could even run, several requirements had to be fulfilled. The nominees must have been of senior classification, attended the entire school year in which they were elected, abided by the rules of dress and behavior, and have at least a "C" average the year prior to the elections and maintained the average throughout the year.

Carmen said, "I had a great deal of support from my friends, but I never expected to win." She was a finalist in the West Texas Teenage Pageant held on May 4th, 5th and 6th at the downtown Holiday Inn. As for future plans, she answered, "I hope to become a veterinarian."

FACULTY

When we look back on our year, one big important part of it is the faculty. We spent six hours a day, five days a week or 36 weeks in their company. That's a lot of memories.

All of our teachers did a good job of getting their point across. Some did it better than others. Some teachers we liked better than others, maybe because they seemed to see us as people and they cared about us.

Sometimes teachers didn't understand us at all. We would try to explain why we just weren't able to do our homework, or study for a test, but they didn't agree that going to the movies with that cute guy in our government class was more important than our homework.

Except for moments like these, faculty and students worked together well and co-operated with each other. For no matter how much we sometimes griped, our teachers knew that someday their students would thank them for their efforts. Students might never admit it, but they probably knew it, too.

Mr. Charles Molina shows that he has school spirit also, by wearing his hat on Hat Day.

On top of it all

The responsibility of running the school fell upon four administrators — Principal Teresa Pena and Assistant Principals Margaret Frederick, John Justice, and Kay Tidwell.

Miss Pena, in her second year as Andress principal, had a number of duties ranging from curriculum and instruction to overseeing the school budget and finance.

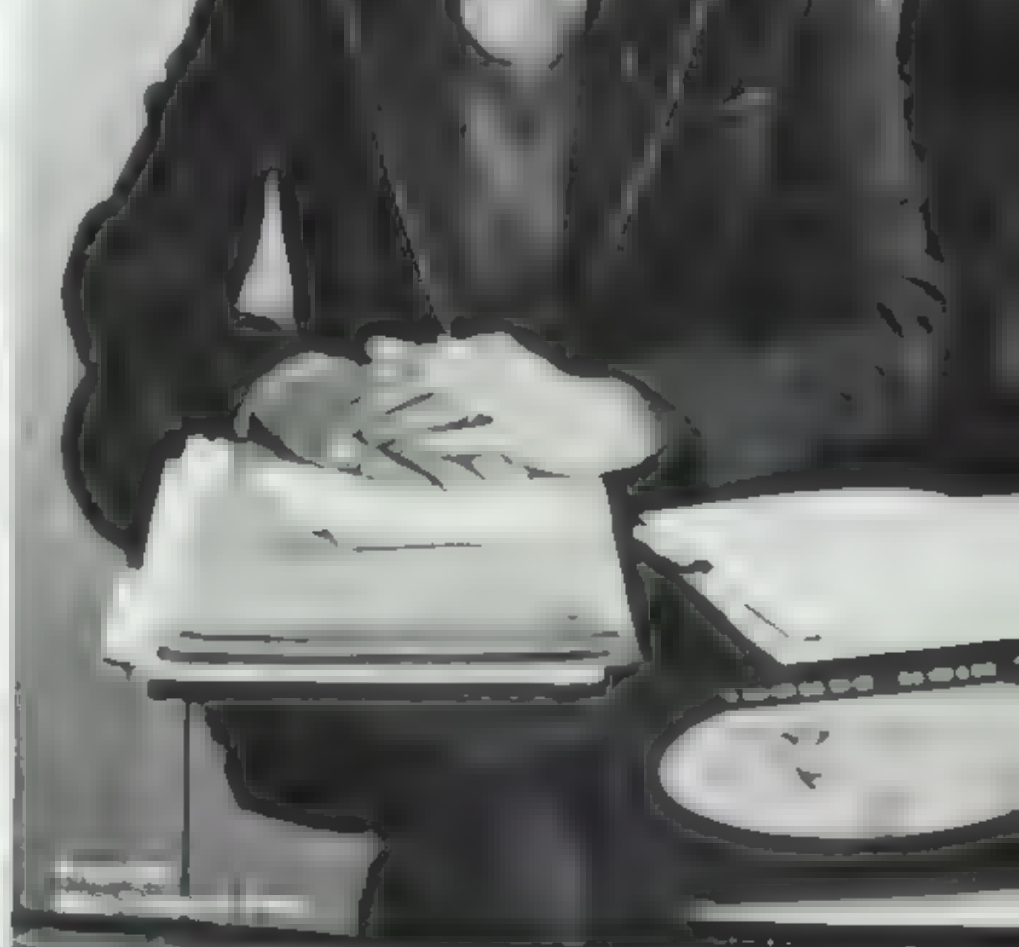

Frederick, also completing her second year here, was coordinator of curriculum and instruction, while John Justice and newly appointed Kay Tidwell headed attendance and discipline of the three grade levels.

In all, these administrators kept track of all the paperwork and worked many hours to see that everything was done right.

SPORTS

All the athletes who participated in any sport this year took a great deal of pride in the sport that they were involved in and they devoted much of their time to each sport. Every one of the athletes put his best effort forward and they all tried hard to come out on the top of the others

Each day after school the football players would put on their gear and get out on the field and practiced until they thought they could go no more

Members of the volleyball team were in the gym every morning on their skills

The girls and the boys basketball players practiced daily and each day they improved a little more

Track and cross country along with the rest of the teams worked out everyday, each encouraged by the knowledge that only through practice could they make the dream of being perfect come true

Although all the teams couldn't win district titles this year, the effort they put forth made them number one

Team shows pride, determination

The 1982 varsity football season actually started off last school year with spring training in April.

Team members worked hard, practicing every weekday during seventh period, after school until at least five o'clock, and Saturdays for about four hours.

According to Head Coach

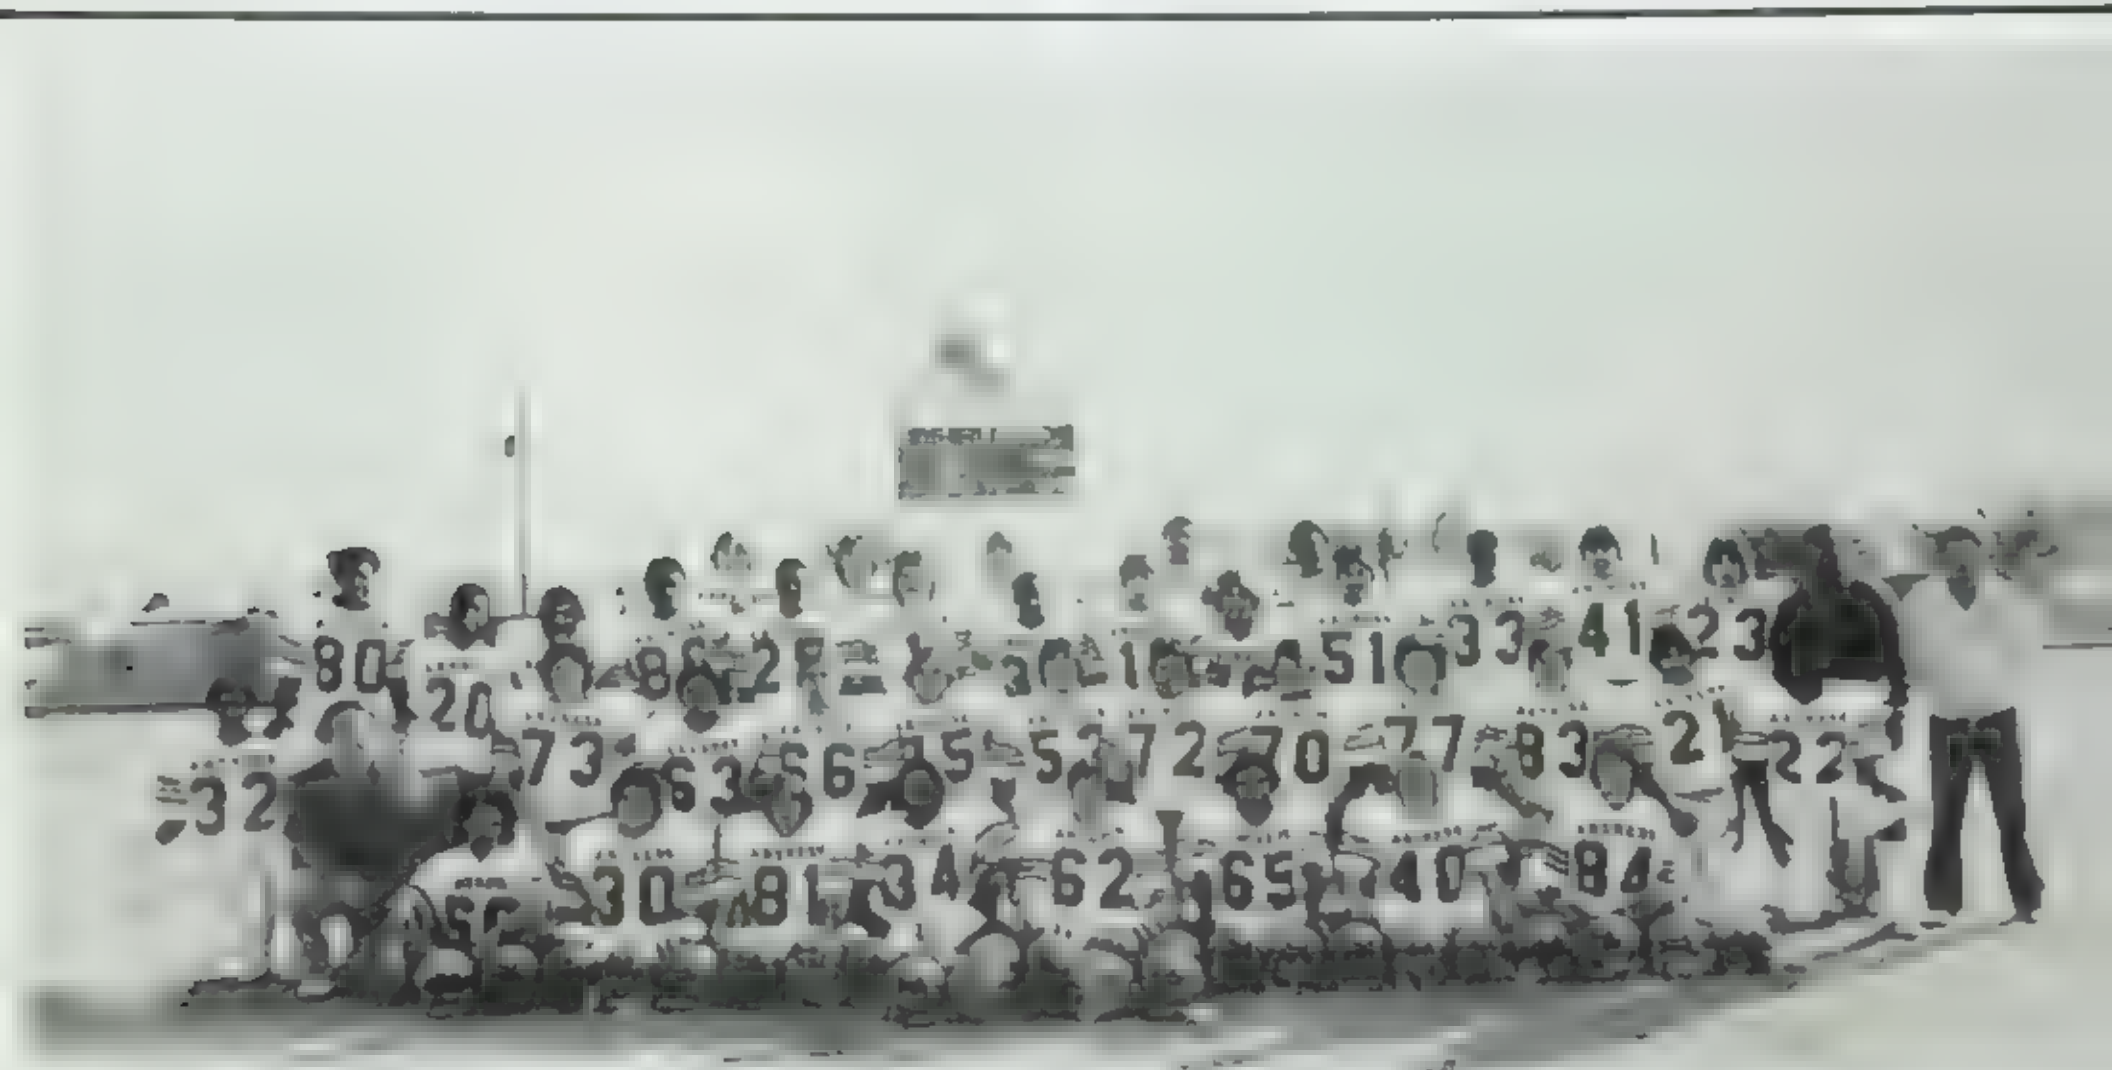

Alan Sepkowitz, outstanding defensive players were Alfred Williams, Jim Archer, Alex Garcia and Rodney Wells. For offense they were Cody Poke, Alfred Williams, Melvin Davis, Steve Bullit, Alex Garcia and James Rojas.

The most difficult game in the opinion of the coaches was the Oct. 29 game against Coronado because it was a life-or-death situation. Had the team won that game, it would have meant a chance at the district playoffs. The team gave their all, but Coronado was a little more determined, winning the game 27-20.

But even after the chance at the playoffs were gone, the team still showed a lot of pride and spirit, giving the Jefferson Foxes, who had upset Coronado earlier in the season, a run for the money. Jefferson won the game 27-20, but the Eagles left the field with their heads up proud of the effort they gave.

Inexperience is setback

The B football team started off its 1982 season with an explosive victory against Parkland, winning 31 to 6.

Using a mixed strategy of passing and running, they capitalized on the fact that Parkland's defense was not up to usual standards. Players and coaches worked very hard in preparing for the games, but evidently their opponents tried a little harder. Their training was equally as tough as the varsity's, with the players practicing daily seventh period until about five o'clock after school.

Inexperience was their main problem, being comprised mostly of sophomores fresh out of the feeder schools, but the experience accumulated on B-team this year will undoubtedly help next year's varsity team.

Receiving top honors were Mario Hostos, Darryl Foster, Scott Heri, Yoland Webber, Boris Wootson, Michael Klee, Luis Murillo, Steve Ortega and Jeff Lewis.

A well-rounded ball club

The Boys' Varsity Basketball team had a rough game against Riverside. The Andress-Riverside basketball game was Andress's most difficult game because it was the first game of the season. Andress lost to Riverside 70-49.

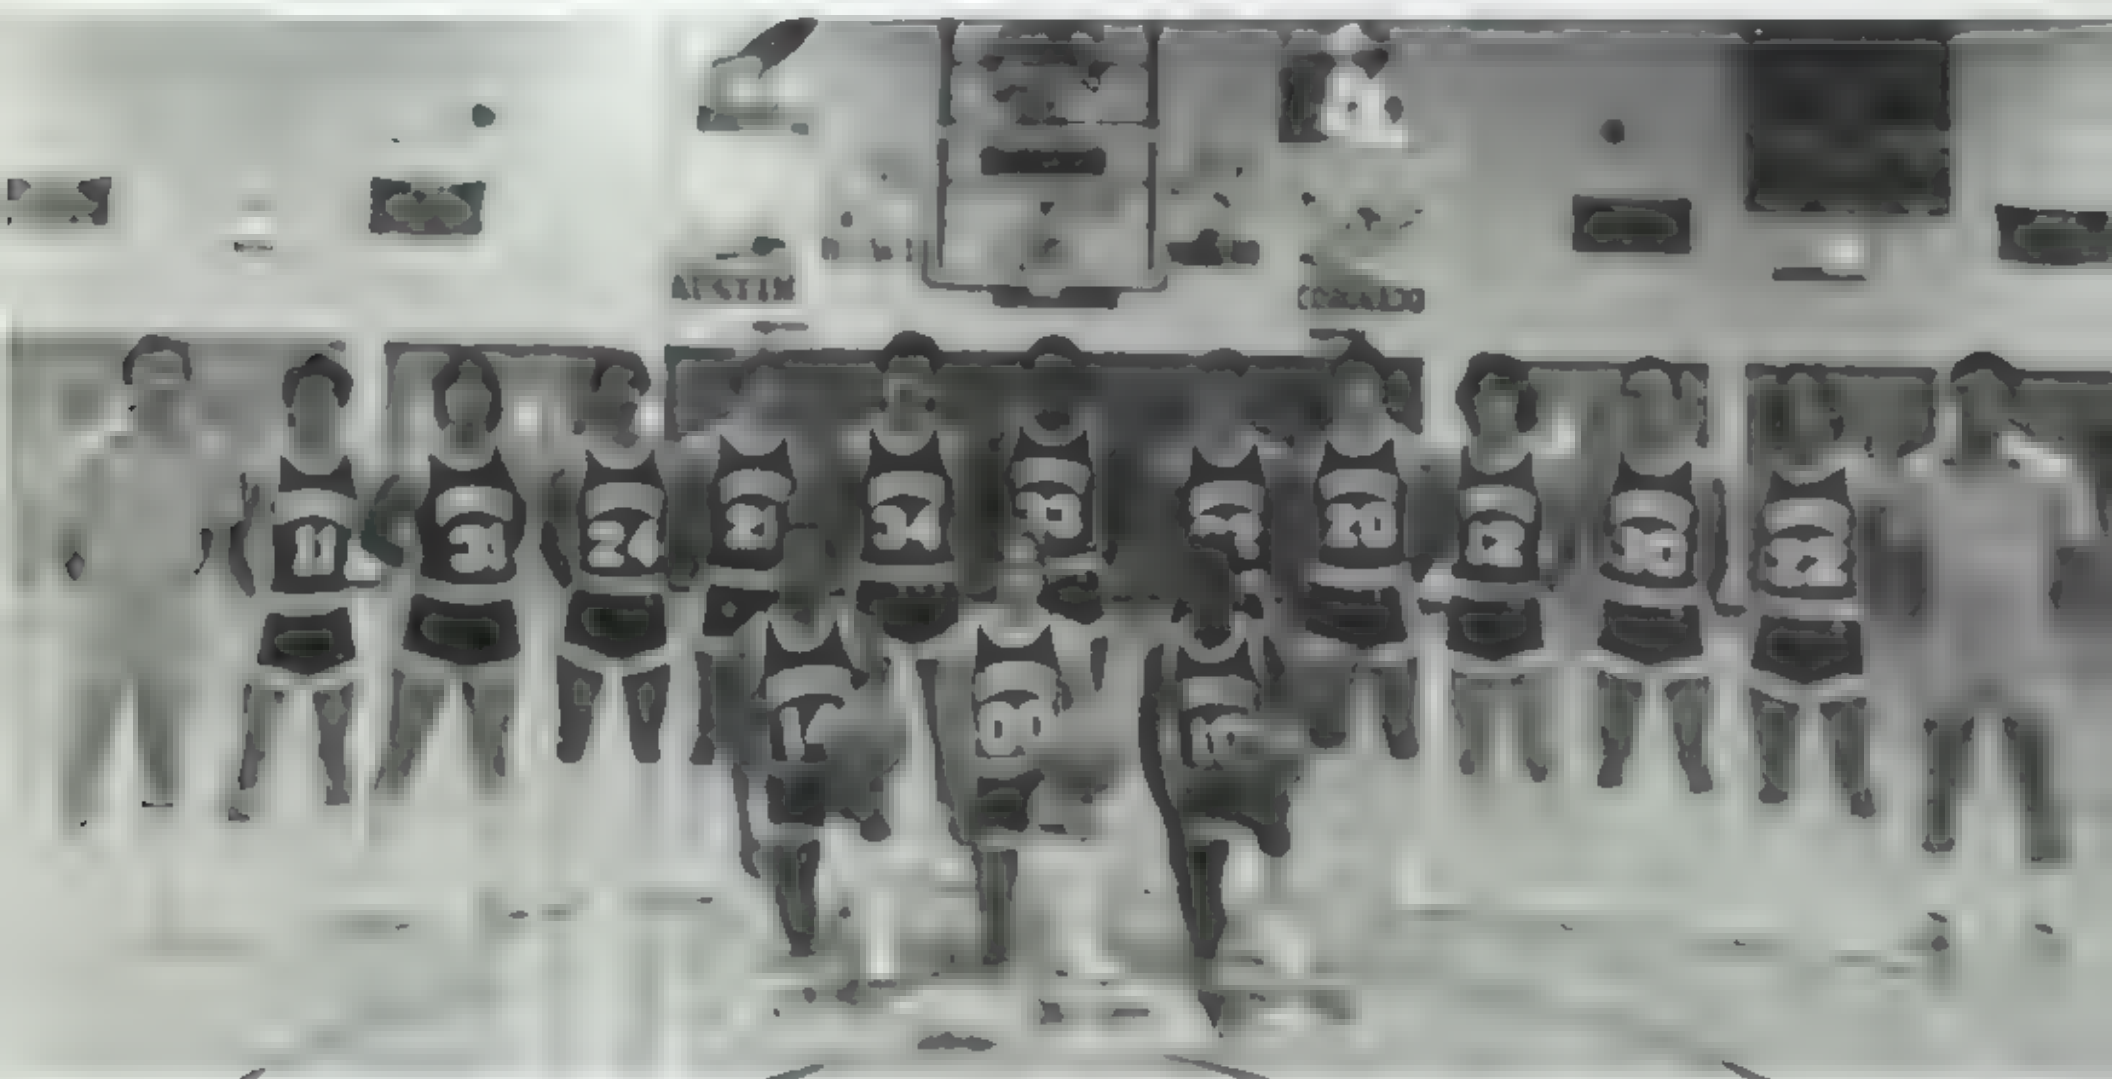

The basketball team practiced since the first day of school from approximately 2:30 thru 5:30. The team came in second in the El Paso High Tournament. The outstanding players in the El Paso High Tournament were Steve Bullitt, David Ortega, Darryl Williams, Kevin Frye, Efren Fernandez, Angel Vela and Daryl Blohm.

"I believe that this year we have a well-rounded ball club," said Coach Fernando Hernandez.

The Eagles started off district play against the Austin Panthers, playing at Andress. Beating the Panthers 48-46. The Eagles were off to a good start.

Boys' B-team is on the ball

This year the Boys B Basketball team started practice September and averaged about an hour-and-a-half each day. They started their district games January 4 by beating Austin by 12 points. They also beat Coronado 28-36 and Jefferson 38-36.

This season the players were more concerned about their plays than anything else so they had to concentrate more on defense than on offense.

I think there are several players who have really come a long way in basketball. I think they all are outstanding in one way or another," said Coach Bill Rivas. Coach Rivas also commented "I think the toughest job has been in trying to make the kids believe in themselves, that they don't have to be losers like other people may think."

The B team basketball season ended February 18, with their last opponent being the El Paso High Tigers.

Lack of experience hurts

The wrestling team opened its season at the Burges Takedown tournament on Nov. 24. Although they did not win, they walked away with pride, gaining valuable experience that went on to help in other matches.

"Lack of experience was the main setback," for the wrestling team, according to coach Oscar Miranda, who was new to Andress. Miranda went on to say that he had an enthusiastic bunch and that "made it easier to shape up a good team."

With only about one-third of the team being returning wrestlers, the team worked very hard during the first semester getting in shape.

The team's out-of-town tournaments were at Las Cruces and Silver City, and they also participated in Bowie invitational and dual matches at Burges, Bowie and Austin.

Mark Boncser was one of the team members who placed in the various events. Some others were Mike Lara, Kenny Nesmith, Cody Poke, Kirk Chitty and Ricardo Espino.

In addition to Coach Miranda, Mr. Richard Flores served as assistant coach. Both devoted many extra hours, even on weekends, helping to perfect the team's skills.

Good chance for first

The Andress Varsity Baseball team began practicing since February 1, preparing for their season opener against Fabens at Fabens. This year the team had four returning lettermen — Mario Vela, Jody Skipworth, Kevin Jones and Jim Archer

The most improved players according to Coach Antwine were Mario Vela and Manny

Ramirez and the most outstanding players were Mario Vela, who had been an all-district player for two years, and Jim Archer, who had been all-district player for one year.

Coach Antwine said they had a good chance at first place if they worked hard. Before district competition began Andress hosted a baseball tournament with Parkland, Amarillo High, Palo Duro, Riverside, Fabens, El Paso High and Coronado competing

Coach Antwine also commented, "This team is very young. What this team needs is experience and we need to mature. This team also needs to learn how to become winners."

A hard-working bunch

The Andress B Baseball team started practice February 1. They practiced from 2.30 to 5.45 p.m., Monday thru Friday. The team began its district games March 1. Their first district game was against the Ysleta Indians.

"The team needs to work hard on their pitching," said Coach Reed at the beginning of the season. "because we do not have enough pitchers."

The team participated in two tournaments this year — the Ysleta Tournament and the Gadsden Tournament. Hanks, Austin, Bel Air, Coronado, Socorro, Burges and Andress competed in the Ysleta Tournament and Las Cruces, Bowie, Alamogordo, Bel Air

Parkland and Andress participated in the Gadsden Tournament.

Coach Reed also commented, "They are a hard working bunch and I know that they would like for the Andress student body to come out and support them at their games."

High hopes

This year's track team had nine returning lettermen, two of whom were Previous state qualifiers, but early in the season it was hard to tell what their standing in district would be.

Head coach Bob Elliot was expecting a good season, basing his opinion on the competitiveness of the athletes "who strove to improve through their hard work."

The team began the season with their own invitational meet Feb. 25-26. They also participated in meets at Coronado, Irvin, Riverside, Bowie, Bel Air, Ysleta, Eastwood, and travelled to Odessa for the West Texas Relays in preparation for district competition April 22-23.

High hopes were placed on Dale Lavery and Steve Bullit, both former state qualifiers who came in fourth in their events, the hurdles and shot put.

Team shows determination

This year the varsity volleyball players' performance was both good and bad depending on how much pressure was put on each player at the time. Most of the time, however, each player tried hard and each player improved in all her skills.

According to Coach Eva

Navarro, the most outstanding players of this season were Deana Nelson, Karen Johnson, Karen Pollock, and Michelle Beasley. Monika Drake was the most improved player this year.

The most difficult game was the Andress vs. Burgess game and that is because they had to put more of their effort into that game. They really wanted to win and according to the coach they really tried. Although their record was six and eight, they really learned a great deal from this year. Altogether varsity volleyball team has improved over the past few years.

B teamers show good attitude

B-team volleyball had a really good attitude about this year, their games and their practice. The volleyball B-team worked really hard on everything they had to do this year, according to Coach Man-

ny Carrasco

Their hard work and practice showed when they played the games. The team came in first place in the Ysleta Tournament which they really practiced hard for. They came out nine and eleven over all and four and ten in the district

Some of the most outstanding players were Kim Krohn, Esther Salazar, Cathy Dickson and Alice Gross

Getting used to new coach

The girls' varsity basketball team had a lot to contend with this year. It was mainly a question of initial nervousness plus the fact that they were working under a new coach Mrs. Rita Minjarez, a former Andress basketball player herself.

The team worked very well together according to Coach Minjarez. She went on to give special recognition to seniors Virginia Cordero and Jan

Saravo who worked very hard to improve team spirit and leadership.

One of the most difficult games was against Jefferson on Dec. 12. The problem, said Coach Minjarez, was the fact that it was the first district game and the girls were nervous and tense. The result was a loss to the Foxes 33 to 31.

Practices were held every school day during first period and after Nov. 1, they began starting practicing at 7.30 a.m. because it was the first official day of basketball practice.

When asked how this year's team compared with previous years, Coach Minjarez replied that it was her first year teaching at Andress. "It took a while but the girls finally adjusted to my coaching style and learned to play with one another."

Girls' tournament

This year the girls' varsity basketball team hosted a tournament. The schools that participated in the Andress Tournament were Coronado, Irvin, Jefferson, Bel Air, Gadsden, Palo Duro, Hanks, and Andress.

The all-tournament player for Andress was Virginia Cordero, and the most outstanding tournament player was Gwenda Johnson from Coronado High School

The main strategy used in the tournament was to gain confidence and a little more experience while playing some competitive teams. Andress won the Consolation Bracket by defeating Hanks 43 to 30 and Gadsden 39 to 37

They hustle more, improve

This year's girls' B basketball team improved over last year's team. "They hustle more," commented Coach Eva Navarro. Though the girls had a problem shooting from the free throw line, Coach Navarro said, "They are a nice group of girls who work hard to do better."

The B basketball team practiced since the second of November. The outstanding players were Francine Jones and Linda Kirk.

The team moved fast with the ball; they also had very good control over the ball. "Each girl tries her best and with that, what team could lose?" Coach Navarro replied when asked what she thought of her team.

Many of the girls on this year's team had little experience and Coach Navarro felt that each girl learned a great deal from the team at Andress.

Team is more experienced

This year's gymnastics team consisted of returning members Carmen Ortiz, Gay Beasley, Heather Hunt, Lisa Bradford, Michelle Richardson and Christie LeClaire

"We'll have to work hard in all four events," Mrs Rosemary Arriola commented when asked how she felt about this year's team. "Some of the girls are stronger in tumbling skills and on the floor exercises than they were last year and I have more girls going out for the vaulting," she added

Each day the team must exercise and do warm-up stretches to keep themselves in shape. Some of the girls are also taking dance classes along with gymnastics

Lack of experience on the uneven bars and the fault will be the main problem with this year's team. "I feel I have a good team," Coach Arriola said about her team

Girls give 100 per cent

The girls' varsity track team consisted of thirty-two members, all of whom competed in some event and put forth 100 per cent in whatever event they participated. For the first two weeks of practice they conditioned and learned drills to increase their performance. Later they worked on techniques and began fine tuning for their respective events

According to Coach Lucy Nieman, the girls were very enthusiastic about the upcoming season. They realized they had the potential to win district and they worked hard to achieve that goal

In addition to new talent acquired this year, the team's hope for a district title was based on five members with outstanding records from the previous year. Senior Patty Pope went to state in the 200 meter dash. Donna Lavery placed sixth at state in cross country. Francine Jones placed first in high jump. Bernadetta McBurrows set a record in the triple jump and 400-meter dash, and Edwina Hunter, sophomore, placed first in the 100 meter dash

Cross country runners a tough group

Members of the 1983 Cross Country team, although small in number, were a hard working, self-disciplined bunch. Coached by Miss Lucy Nieman, the teams, both boys and girls, worked individually as a team.

The team practiced every day during seventh period, often running until 4.30 or 5 p.m. They kept in top shape by doing distance workouts, speed tests and mile intervals.

Time on the track was grueling and strenuous, but proved beneficial as they consistently showed themselves to be competitive in the various meets they ran in, including those at Mayfield in Las Cruces, Bel Air, Coronado and Ysleta.

The team also participated in the Crimestoppers' Run Against Crime 9-mile race which attracted many world class runners including Frank Shorter, a 1972 Munich Olympics gold medalist and Mexico's Rudolfo Gomez, who won the Crimestoppers

Besides Donna Lavery, who placed first in the district meet and ended the season sixth in the state, some of the outstanding team members according to Coach Nieman were Tim Foster, Danny Maldonado, Felipe Soto, Fidel Villapando, George Carlton, and Irene Vasquez.

Sixth in state

With this year's outstanding runners, there was one that stood out from all the rest. In her second year on the team, Donna Lavery's performance this year was justified by her hard work and dedication.

She participated in various meets along with the team, including the Crime Stoppers Run Against Crime nine-mile race, where she finished third.

Placing first in district and third in regionals, she went on to compete against 105 other runners from throughout Texas in the state competition held at U.T. Austin.

The competition consisted of a two-mile course. She ended up with sixth in the state, but even more important, the junior gained experience which will be valuable next year.

Donna Lavery, a true competitor placed first in district, third in regionals, and sixth in state cross country competition.

Three's enough

The Swim team practiced since September throughout the season. The team practiced daily at Veterans Swimming Pool from 7:30 thru 9:00 a.m. The team did not score very high in the meets, since there were not very many members. There were only three girls in the team.

The team participated in the Ysleta and New Mexico Invitational. They participated in the Ysleta and El Paso District meets this year.

"The girls I have on the team this year are better than good. It is a shame we don't have at least one more girl to make up a relay," said Coach Malley.

Different strokes

With most of golf season occurring after final yearbook deadline, it was difficult to predict what the outcome would be.

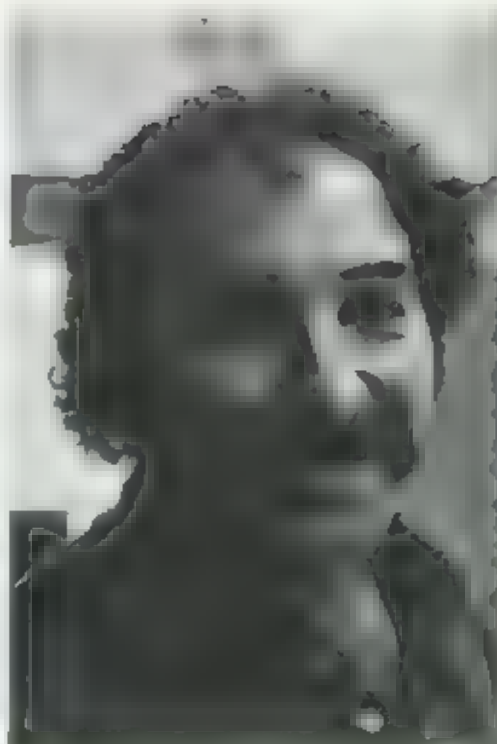

Boys' golf returned four golfers from last year who had played very well in the last season.

The team had hosted an invitational tournament and participated in the Bowie-

Jefferson Invitational before the final yearbook deadline and they did very well in both of these tournaments.

There was only one girl on the team who was returning from the past year, Monica Drake.

According to Coach Manny Carrasco, "If I stay on their backs, they have the guts and determination to win!"

On court all year 'round

Members of the varsity boys' and girls' tennis teams worked out throughout the year, participating in round robin tournaments in the fall and regular meets in the spring in preparation for district competition in May.

According to Coach Bill Wilson, the team's attitude was good and their performance was outstanding. Any setbacks the team experienced, said Wilson, were due mostly to the weather which is very unpredictable in the spring.

Team workouts began at 2:30 weekdays with the netters running, working on the machine to improve their ground strokes, and also working on their serve.

In February the team participated in a city-wide tournament with Kurt Koether, Sara Taylor and Irene Sandoval advancing to the semifinals. In April, the team travelled to Amarillo for three days to compete in a tournament there.

Returning lettermen included Kurt Koether for the boys and Michelle Byrd, Marianne Morgan and Sara Taylor for the girls' team.

We're more like a family

Each year it seems that we get more loyal young men and women with a knack towards the job. It's more of a family than a team doing the job with all the athletes." This is the statement of head trainer Doc Luther when asked how he felt about the trainers this year. He added, "They're the best group I've ever had the pleasure to know and work with."

The trainers' job is to make sure each player has enough liquid throughout each game, take care of any injury that may occur during a game, and made sure everything is in order, including Doc, according to Luther.

The trainers attend class to learn first aid, CPR, athletic preventive taping, how to keep each player in tip-top shape and how to work an injured player back into playing again.

SENIORS

'Well, we've finally made it.' That's what the class of '83 is saying. After 12 years (or more) of school this was their year. Many seniors didn't know what they would do after graduation; they were just going to take it as it comes. But other seniors knew that they would be going to college or beginning a career.

What was the best thing about being a senior? Being on top is what most seniors said. Also, seniors could choose most of the classes they were interested in. But others took the harder classes to prepare for the SAT test and for entrance into college.

Another thing about the class of '83 was that they were the most spirited. Having won more spirit jugs at the pep rallies than any other class proved it. Also they won more contests, including the building decorating contest, during Homecoming week.

All in all what would Address High be without the class of '83!"

HONORS

honors and hard to come by most people it takes a great deal of time effort, and power to achieve a goal. People who do have what it takes, however, know how special they are. It is for them that the Honors section exists. Their achievements were recognized and credited with having made a big difference at Andress.

Perhaps the past twenty-one years of Andress students help set an example for them to strive to succeed. It might have meant working hard to get the grades necessary to be invited to join the National Honor Society or the long hours of practice in order to be selected as one of the few to lead the student body in the showing of school spirit. It might have meant being active in extracurricular activities as well as maintaining good grades to be chosen as All Address.

Knowing the hard work these people endured was a lesson for all of us and set examples for future Eagles to strive for.

The cheerleaders got together to show their school spirit at a Homecoming-week pep-assembly.

Holmes, Bullit named All-Andress

Being named All-Andress boy and girl was a very high honor for Amy Holmes and Steve Bullit. These students were nominated by the faculty; their academic achievement, school involvement and behavior were taken into consideration.

Amy had participated in the Science Club, Teen Involvement and National Honor Society. She was also a band officer, student body manager and president of Student Council. With all the activities she was involved in, Amy still kept her grade average at an "A."

Amy hopes to attend the University of Texas at Austin, although her major is still undecided. Her advice to other students was, "I encourage students to get involved with school activities because it makes coming to school more interesting and gives them pride in what they do."

Steve's main concentration was in football, track, and basketball. He played center on the varsity basketball team, was all district in football, and placed third in the state shot-put competition last year.

Steve received football scholarships from Texas A&M, Indiana and UTEP among other universities. He's interested in majoring in the engineering field.

When asked how he felt about being chosen All-Andress, he replied, "I was surprised and honored. I didn't even know I had a chance at it."

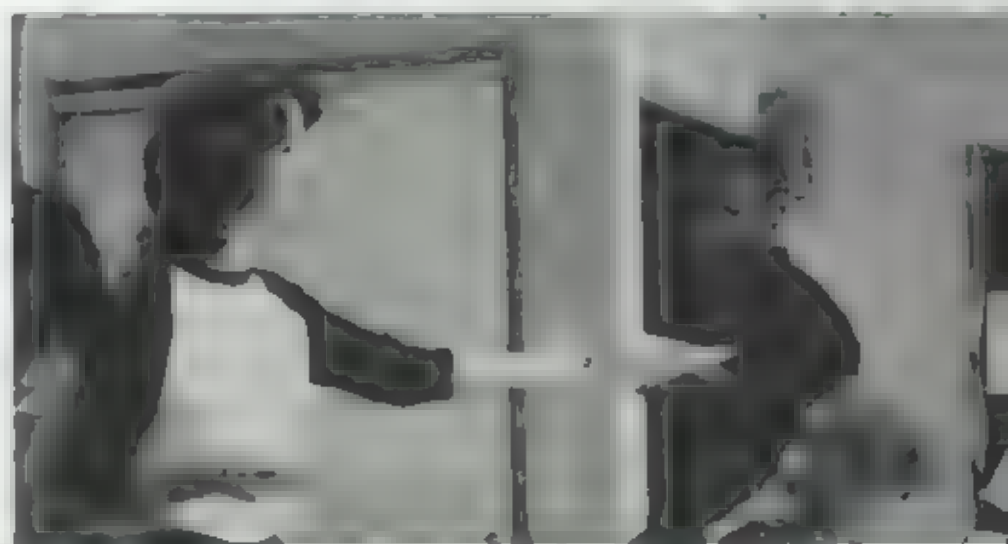

Steve proved to be an important team member in football getting all-district and all-city honors.

Playing center on the varsity basketball team, Steve takes a free throw at a game against Bowie.

As Student Council president, Amy carried the bouquet which was presented to the Homecoming Queen.

Amy hands a Student Council member an award for perfect attendance.

NHS tops all-around

Because the National Honor Society was strictly by faculty vote, it was one of the highest honors for a student to receive at Andress.

They vote on a list of candidates in which the following points are considered: character, school involvement, classroom behavior, leadership qualities, and grade average. The induction was held in the spring of the school year.

National Honor Society sold candy at the beginning of the year; they had the frisbee toss at the Fall Festival and helped promote the canned food drive for needy families.

The officers were Robert Neely, president; Larry Pipkin, vice-president; Kelly Strasser, secretary; and Absa McBurrows, treasurer.

Who's Who

Who's Who is one of the many top honors for senior students here at Andress. There were sixty seniors nominated for the honor by the faculty this past year. Out of those sixty, the board of teachers narrowed the list down to the top twenty; however, due to a tie there were actually twenty-two students honored to Who's Who.

These students ranged from top scholastic achievers to those who performed valuable services to the school and community. Their achievement and ability to get along with people were also a factor in being named to such a prestigious honor.

Super Seniors

Being one of the "most" this year, was being one of the many celebrities at Andress

Senior Superlatives were nominated by themselves or friends of the senior class. Qualifications were only you need be a senior, and have your class vote for you

The senior celebrities varied from "biggest flirt" to "most shy."

Cheerleaders fire up team spirit

Like most other years, the cheerleaders showed the great spirit and pride they had by working hard at their routines, from pep assemblies to football games.

Cheerleading consisted of a six-member squad, pride, hard work, and maintaining a "C" average. The varsity squad worked registration week in August, cheered at all varsity boys' football games, sold beat ribbons weekly during football season, ran all pep assemblies, and served as hostesses at different events.

The junior varsity cheerleaders cheered at all varsity girls' volleyball and basketball games, cheered at pep assemblies, helped promote spirit by making posters, and assisted the varsity cheerleaders.

The B-team cheerleaders performed their weekly stunts at pep assemblies, made posters, and cheered at all team football and basketball games.

The Eagle Bird was also a great feature at our football games and assemblies.

Varsity Cheerleaders: Lisa Borrero, Candy Naylor, Kelly Arreola, Margi Debarr, Susan Findley, and Cecilia Carbajal

The Eagle Bird (alias Robert Muro) was one of the main attractions at our football games

The Jr. varsity squad consisted of Cathy Cranford, Michelle Hill, Elsie Chavez, Elisa Bradford, Monica Flores, and Marilyn Ward.

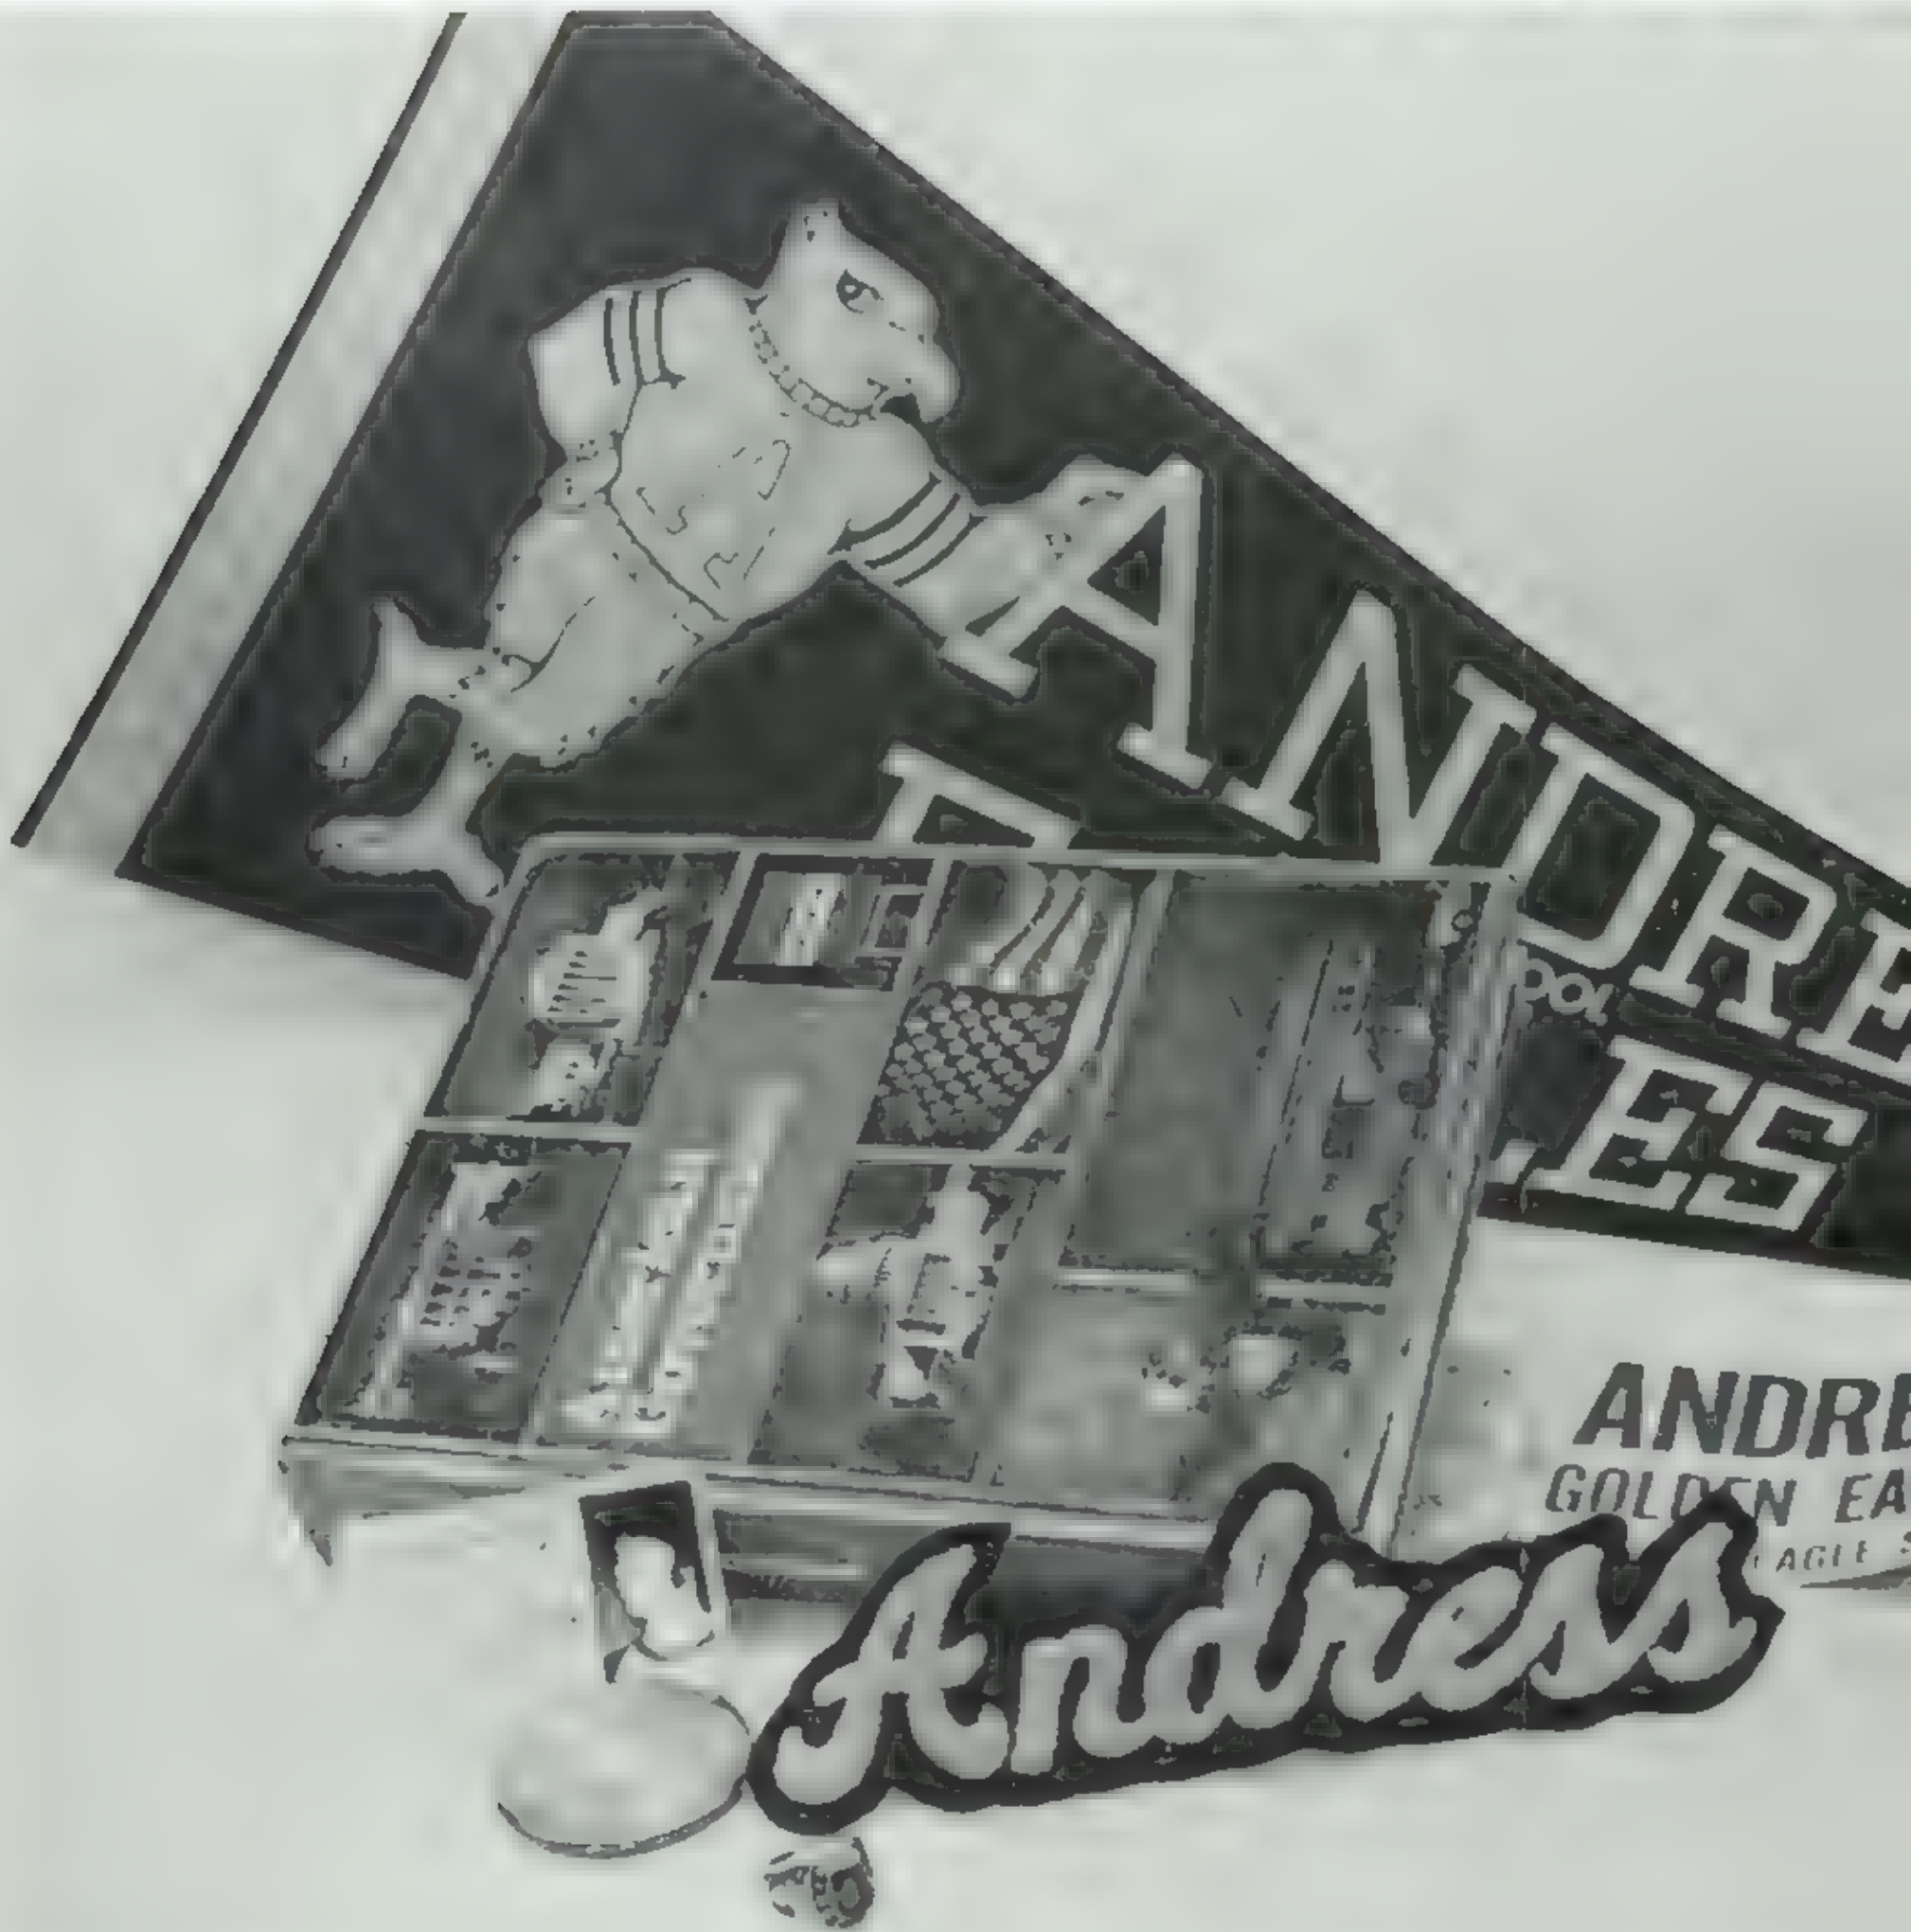

B-team squad consisted of Erica McGill, Tina Thompson, Cindy Brunell, Sheila Chertman, Amanda Banks, Eva Gibbs.

JUNIORS

Hard work and study took much of the juniors' school time. Not all was hard concentration for there was room for attending football games, and other sports activities throughout the school year.

This year, juniors showed their spirit at pep assemblies, working hard, but only succeeding once in taking the spirit jug from the seniors. During Homecoming week they decorated B Building and participated in the activities held that week.

A big moment in the lives of many juniors was taking drivers education class so they could get their license. Many juniors worked after school to save money to buy themselves a car, and then, to pay for gasoline.

Junior also looked forward to getting their class rings. They also worried about taking the PSAT test. It gave them a glimpse of the necessary preparations for their senior year and college.

Most of all, juniors looked forward to being seniors next year!

STUDENT LIFE

Student life presents the different situations people experienced throughout the year. The weather often seemed to dictate a student's choice of dress. El Paso weather is so unpredictable, that we were often caught unprepared, like the day it rained, and rained, and rained

For others, getting a job and keeping it was a necessary part of their life. This was due to the current economic situation, which made paying for gas, debts, and other personal needs, or even saving for their future education difficult

The traditional Fall Festival was another aspect of student life. It was a rare time for the many organizations to join together, where as they usually went their separate ways. Air

Band 2, a craze spreading at Andress, was again responsible for the making of student life. All of these things contributed to the many situations we experienced and the memories we made

Some must juggle school and work

Andress High students, like people all over, were looking for jobs more than ever this year. With a recession that improved only slightly and inflation not getting noticeably better, jobs were necessary to get the spending money, not only for "luxuries" like dates and movies, but for the necessities like school expenses.

Seniors especially found it necessary to work to finance cap and gown rentals, announcement purchases and other graduation expenses.

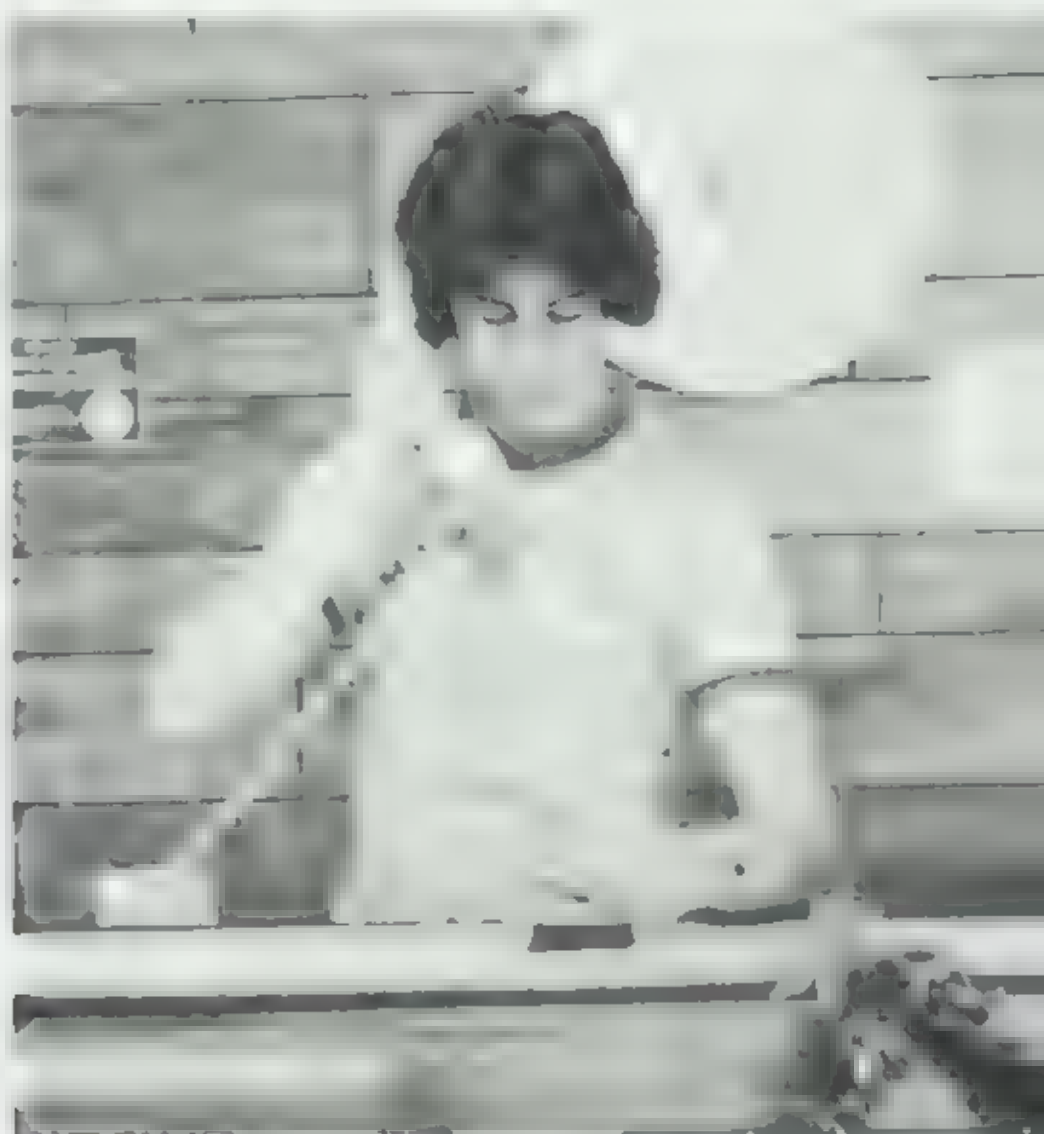

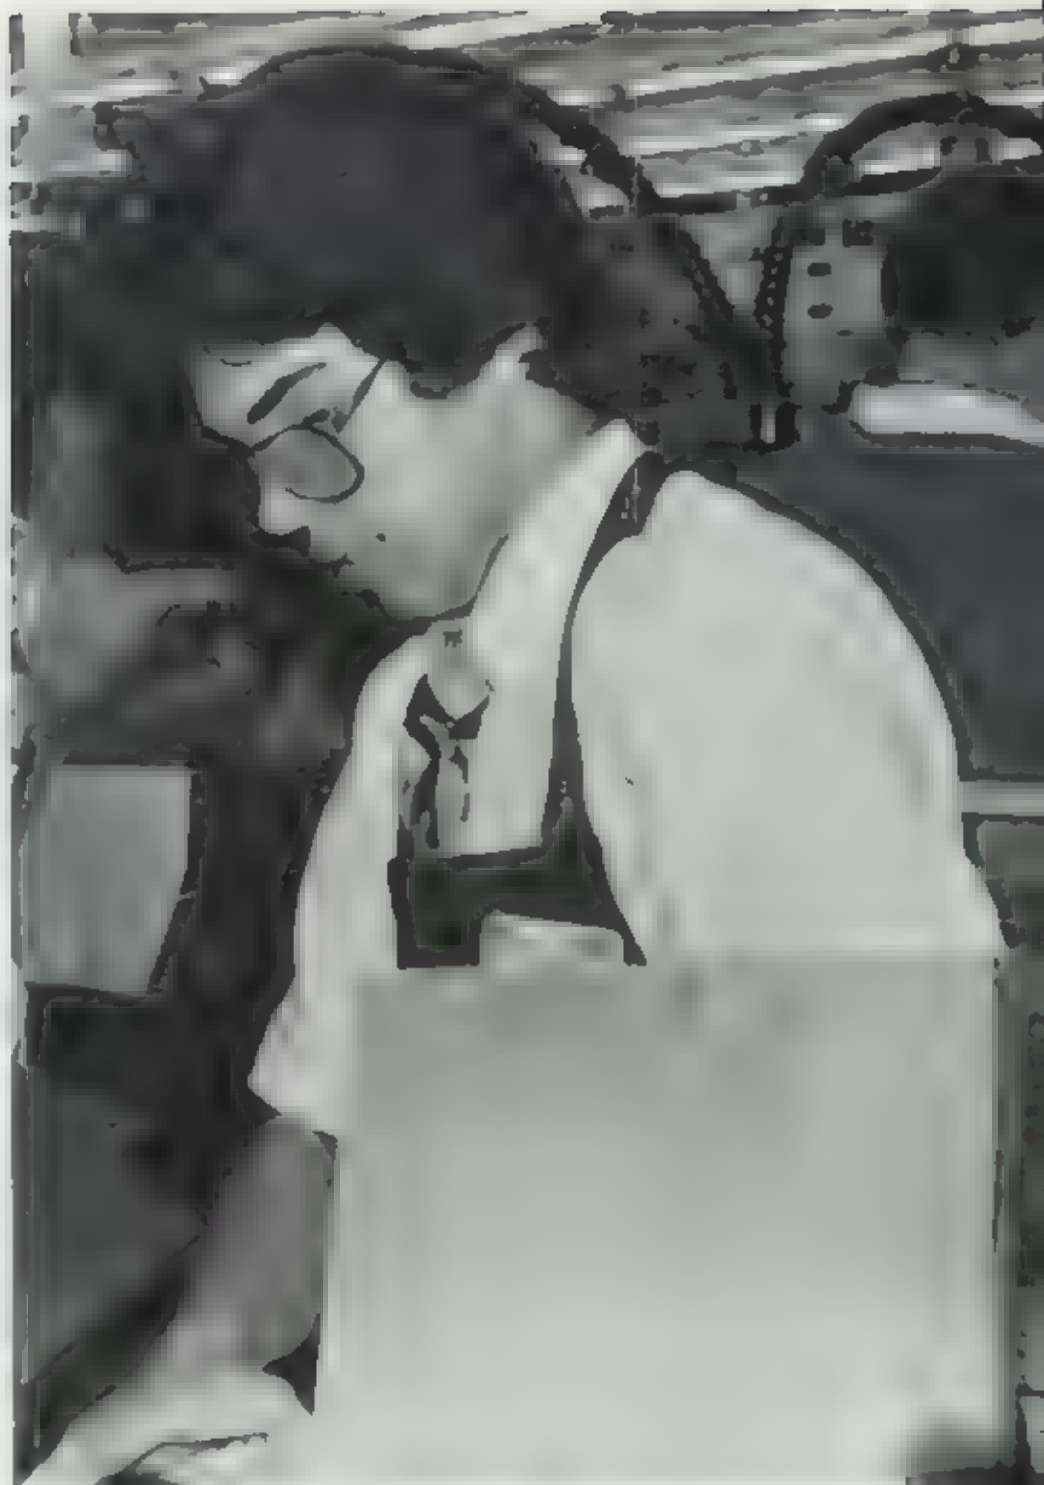

Students learned how to spend their money wisely and save for the future.

Those who had hoped to get a car for their senior year found that they also needed the gas money to make it run. Roger Benson, who worked at Mama Mia's Pizza Parlor, commented, "The main reason I was working was to start saving money for college. I also wanted the extra spending money."

The most common places to find work were right here in the Northeast. Such places as Gibson's, Skaggs, Mama Mia's, and many other stores provided jobs for Andress students.

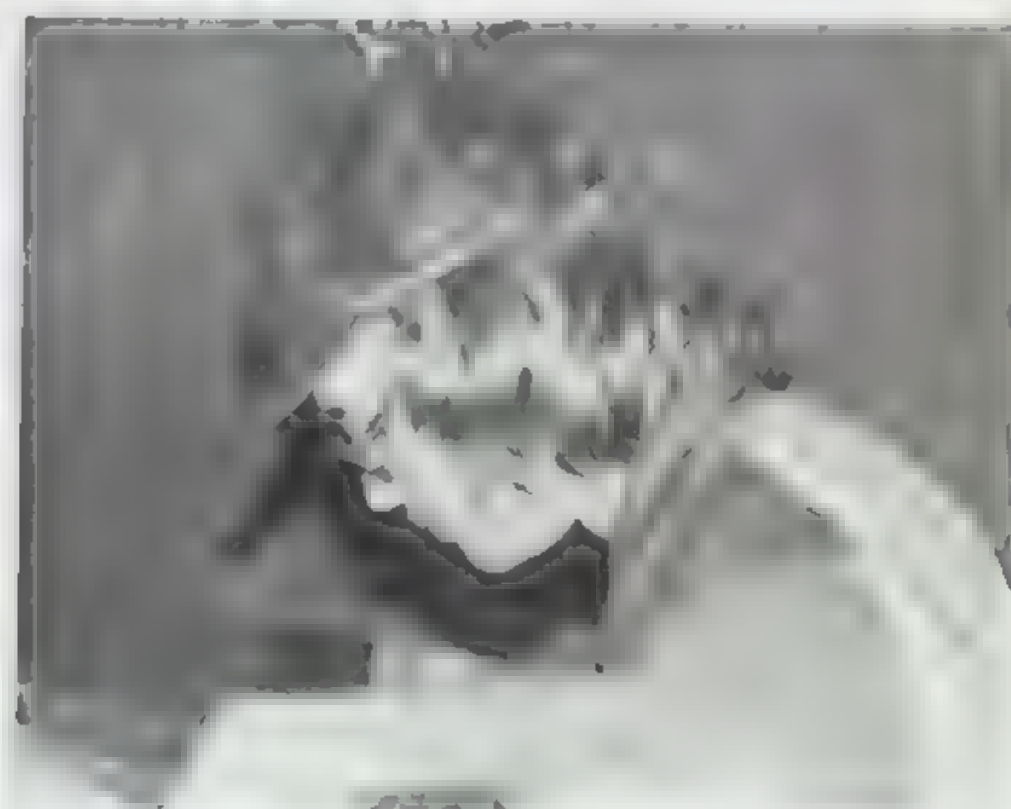

For those students who were fortunate in getting a job, it meant juggling school work, and other activities as well, but they did it.

Senior Mike Flores sacks groceries for the Skaggs' customers

Baskin Robbins employee, junior Joe Johnson had one of the more tasty jobs - scooping the 31 flavors available into cones and other creations

Air band II

On October 27, the second annual Air Band contest was held.

The contest consisted of nine bands from which the finalists were chosen. There was also a guest group called "Sanctuary."

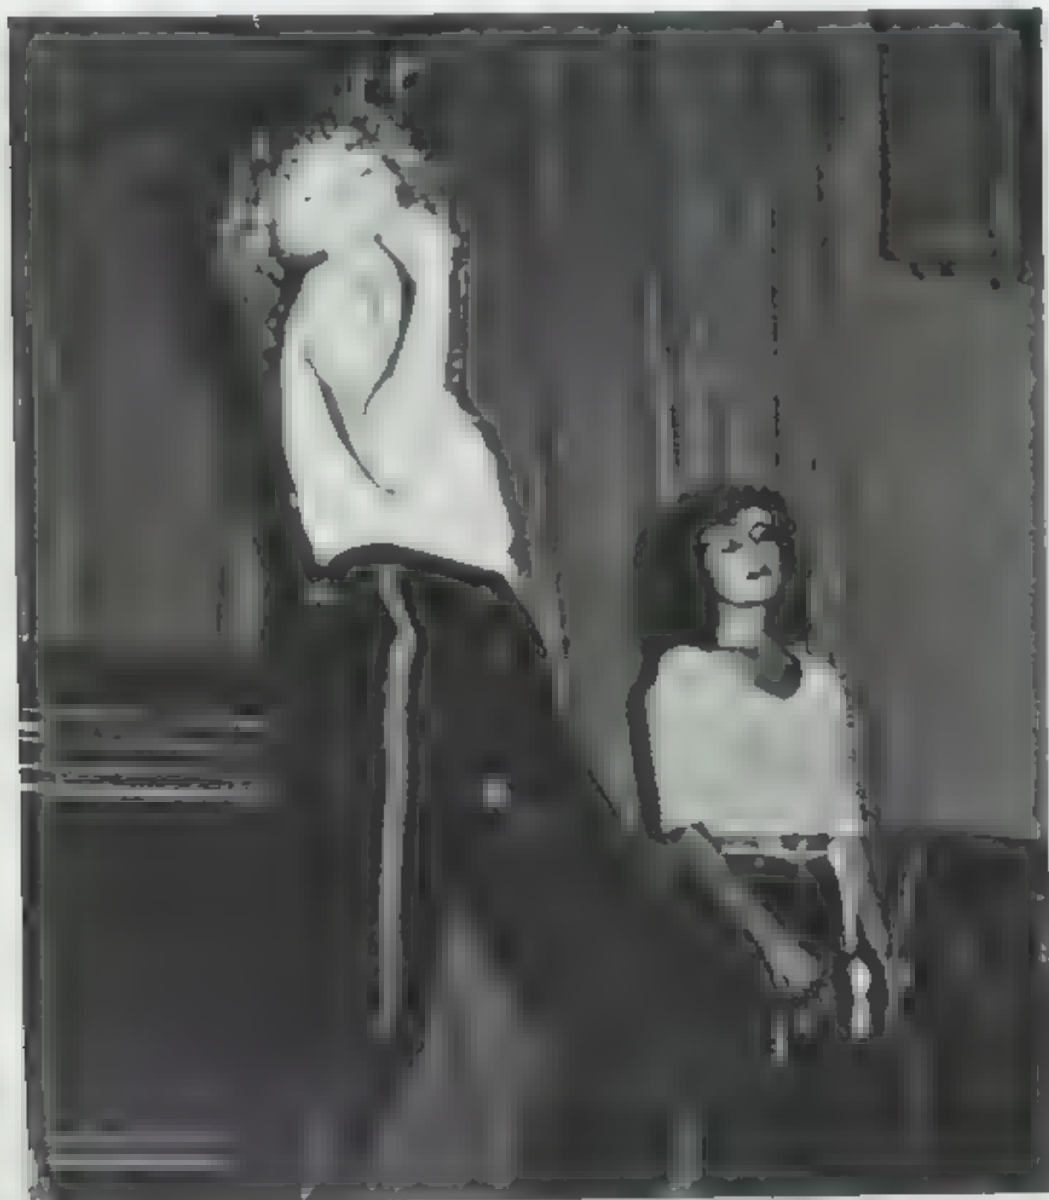

The first place winner which was "Atlantis," won $25.00 in cash. "Hell Bent" came in second place and the "M.D.'s" took third.

Other participants were Angel's Wrath, the Goo Goo's, Blinding Energy, Royal Ecstasy, Hex, and Black Leather.

There were three judges: two of them D.J.'s from local radio stations and the other was the sponsor of the band "Sanctuary."

According to our Student Activities Director, Miss Harmon, "This year's Air Band contest was better than last year's. More students participated and everyone cooperated."

"The M.D.'s lead by David Ortega and Mano Vela, performed to the music of AC/DC."

Amanda Kelly portrays rock and roll star Pat Benatar.

Students crowded into the gym to show their enthusiasm for the airband contest.

This band went out of their way to make their band the highlight of the day.

Participants Drew, Charlie, Steve, McAdams, and Bob Vincent, went all out in their performance by making their actions as well as professional.

A member of the guest group, Sanctuary, entertained everyone by playing the guitar.

Fall Festival offers games, goodies

The air was full of excitement as the last preparations were being made on the many organizations' booths. Each organization was represented in a most stylish and wonderful way, for our campus was transformed into a fairground.

Upon entering the campus on the warm afternoon of November 6, 1982 the Annual Fall Festival was in full swing by 12:30. The main problem was trying to figure out whether to eat first or to participate in all the activities.

If it was food that was on your mind, there were nachos, hot dogs, and popcorn among other things. You could have gotten married and divorced in one day, or gotten revenge on the teachers by tossing a few whipped-cream pies. Or you could try your luck in a treasure hunt (French style) and then gotten thrown in jail or taken a dare and gotten your nerves spooked out of you at the Haunted House.

Among some of the organizations there were the French Club, National Honor Society, Student Council, Future Teachers of America and Future Secretaries Association.

Yvonne Otero makes final strokes on the poster for the Shave-A-Balloon booth.

Two ROTC Booster Club members, Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Rudy, work at their booth, which featured raffles for cakes and pizza and bowling.

Susan Rodriguez sets up props for the VOE wedding booth, a very popular attraction at the carnival.

Social Studies teacher Mr. Richard Flores braces himself for the whipped-cream pie that is coming his way, and then flinches as it hits its mark

Distributive Education club members wait for customers at their booth, which featured a sour, but popular tem pickles

Future Secretaries members Mary Hurd and Diane Shay focus their attention on the board holding the targets of their Dart Throw

National Honor Society sponsor Mrs. Mary Baquera and members Kelly Strasser and Cheryl Rohrbaugh have their booth ready early and wait for contestants at the Frisbee throw

Senior Mike Rice makes an effort to cover up from the rain, as it begins to pour heavily through the trees and along the side of the buildings, creating puddles of water on the sidewalk

Even though it was almost the end of October and officially fall, the weather was warm enough for seniors Mike Hicks and Patty Sierra to wear beach clothes for Homecoming Malibu Day. Students set up a pool on the quad and played on the "beach" while those less daring looked on

Bushes and tree limbs still laden with snow greeted students upon their return from Christmas holidays. Students had lots of time to play in the snow which fell at Christmas and again at New Years

Weather or not . . .

El Pasoans have always been accustomed to unpredictable weather and this past year was no exception. In fact, we were more conscious than ever about the weather.

The way Andress High school is designed, with twelve separate buildings, students and faculty are exposed to the weather much more than those in schools that are just one big building or where corridors join the buildings. Students "suffered" even more than most faculty members because they usually had each class in a different building and so had to be out in the open more often.

This caused people to be cautious about what they wore. Sometimes, when a warm, sunny morning turned into a cold, rainy day, students would be caught without hats, jackets, gloves, or even the right kind of shoes to keep warm. As a result, notebooks and textbooks were used to cover their heads.

On the more-than-usual rainy days we experienced this fall and the surprisingly unusual snowy days we had in winter — despite the inconveniences — students found themselves enjoying the change from our typical Sun City weather.

Mr. Jose Moya keeps our school looking clean by doing tasks such as raking leaves off the quadrangle. School custodians daily rake the leaves which showered from the many trees in the quad during the fall.

As students hurried to their next class in the steadily falling rain, those lucky enough to have umbrellas were somewhat protected while for others jackets were the only means of keeping from being soaked.

SOPHOMORES

The biggest thing about this year for the sophomores was finally making it to the big times — high school! Although they were late to class the first few days (it took them a while to learn their way around)

It was different being on a high school campus and most were shy. They were a little nervous not knowing how the other students were going to react to them. But, in no time at all sophomore students had acquired the same respect and pride in Andress High School and that the juniors and seniors already had Sophomores started school off on the right foot by cheering in the football pep assemblies and helping in a lot of the projects we had in school. They especially had fun at dressing up as punk rockers, surfers, and every thing else that happened on Homecoming week. Sophomores seemed really to enjoy the Fall Festival, too, spending a lot of money on food and fun

All in all the sophomores had a great year, and the knowledge that next year, there would be a class under them, made it all worthwhile

Sophomores thought their first year at Andress was great.

World's Greatest Andross HS ROTC

The many organizations of offered extracurricular activities in which the students could get involved. Students either joined a club by taking a certain class because they had a special interest in it or simply to socialize.

Certain classes like VOE automatically meant joining a club. These classes promoted the feeling of responsibility and a sense of pride in accomplishment.

Some organizations like Future Secretaries Association, and the Science Club helped focus on individual interests or even future careers.

Some clubs like the Black-American Club were for those students who shared certain interests.

Being in an organization was a fun and learning experience.
 Each member had his own responsibilities which built confidence in him and earned him

 the respect of his peers.
 Students didn't have to be bored in school with the wide variety of organizations to participate in.

Leading the way

The Student Council acts as the government of the school. They plan activities and take care of complaints by taking them to the administration office and the teachers," said Miss Mary Anna Harmon, sponsor of Student Council.

There are forty people in Student Council. They are nominated and voted on by the students in the school.

They had a very successful year. They sold bumper stickers, calendars, and trash cans. They took care of all the voting elections, except for Andress Aglow. They organized Homecoming Week, the Air Band contest and the Fall Festival. With Andress holding the office of president for the district, they organized and hosted the district convention with representatives from all area schools attending. The meeting was held in the gym.

"This summer Student Council did a lot of things they wanted to do. They carried all of this through and I am very proud of them."

Touching lives

The goal of Teen Involvement is to stress decision making skills, interpersonal relationships, and a positive self image. Rather than on drugs, it focuses on young people themselves and considerations are given to peer group pressure and to adolescence as a life phase.

The organization consists of forty students and Miss Sharon

Conroy is the sponsor. Every month they have an all-day program at the Andress feeder schools. They had sessions on Assertive Discipline, Group Dynamics and at least two activities for each class to participate in. They also teach the sixth graders about drug awareness and wholesome attitudes.

"I like Teen Involvement a lot; it gives the kids a positive self image and it helps to develop their decision making skills."

Keeping the beat

This year's Band has 130 members compared to last year's 150 members. With Byron Goodman as President, Brian Baldwin as Vice-President, Lisa Lodge as Secretary, Cheryl Rohrbaugh as Treasurer, Amy Holmes as Chaplain, Michael Apuan, Tony Gonzalez, Jim Reyes, and Walter Jacinto as the Quartermasters, Liz Lopez, Marilyn Mallary, Carl Nicchio, and Norma Rolon as the Librarians, and Larry Pipkin was the Drum Major, they succeeded having another sweepstakes band

The band also succeeded in receiving a first in the annual El Paso Independent School District Band competition. In The Sun Bowl Tournament of Bands, Address got 1st division out of the 123 divisions they gave out. Address stood in 7th place out of the 32 Bands in the competition

Always the best

This year's Jazz Ensemble had a hard act to follow after last year's band won one of the most prestigious honors in high school jazz music.

The group was named as one of the three high school jazz ensembles to represent the U.S. in the Paris Jazz Festival.

This year's group, selected by the National Association of Jazz Educators (NAJE) through audition tapes, in competition with 300 other bands in the U.S., came in 1st place

They were selected to perform in the January convention held in St. Louis, Missouri. However, they did not attend because the school district considered it a band trip. The entire instead chose to go to San Diego for their trip

Best in the city

The Andress Golden Eagle Choir has been under the direction of Lisa Quezada for only two years. During these two years they have received much recognition and numerous honors throughout El Paso.

Fifteen choir students were chosen for the Texas all-region choir, twelve were chosen for the all-area choir, and two for the TMEA all-state choir.

The Andress choir is made up of five choirs: an advanced choir which is forty-five voices strong, a chamber choir of twenty-four voices, a tenor/bass choir of sixteen voices, a treble choir of thirty-two voices, and a jazz choir of twenty-eight voices.

Musically inclined

Orchestra's main purpose this year was to earn enough money in order to go to Dallas to compete against other orchestras from many different states.

This year the group participated in fund raising events including selling candy and stuffed animals to raise money for their trip. At the annual Fall Festival, they sold tea and stuffed animals.

This is the fourth year for Mr. Donald Kopecky, orchestra director. This year he instructed 33 talented members. The special honors earned this year by orchestra included placing members on Youth Symphony and All-region Orchestra.

"The Orchestra has improved since last year."

Working together

This was the fifth year for the Black American Club

The members participated in fund-raising activities such as the ring toss, and selling snacks during the yearly Fall Festival

Black History week is also one of the club's yearly activities, held in February. This consisted of saluting the im portant black people, which dealt with the different types of cultures, and giving a speech on each one's history

Another event held by the Black American Club was a program in which they sang black spirituals, danced and modeled to black music. This concluded the club's events

Creative writers

The Creative Writing Club has fifteen members including president Janet Atteberry vice-president Sam Choi secretary Alma Saenz, and treasurer Ceci Gonzalez. The main purpose of this new organization was to publish a book containing poetry, song writing, and short stories. Since a lot of time is needed to put together this book, Miss Tora Cole, sponsor, hoped that more students would join second semester and have more people get the work done.

It has been a couple of years since Andress has had a good creative writing club and it is kind of fun starting a tradition again," said Miss Cole.

For fundraisers, at the Fall Festival they had a bake sale, Loop the bottle, and Jacob's Ladder.

Miss Cole said she would like to have more people join next year.

Double value

The world is no longer as large as it used to be; therefore knowing two languages makes you worth two people," said Elizabeth Mahfood, the sponsor of the French club.

There were a total of forty members in the club. The officers in the French club were Absa McBurrows, president, Christine Edgar, vice president, Jonathan Evans, treasurer; and Lisa Tipton, secretary.

The year was very successful for the French club. They had a treasure hunt at the Fall Festival, bake sales, car washes, and sold scented flowers in Spring.

Playing around

The Games Club is for students to interact and have fun. Some of the games that were played were Dungeons and Dragons, and Stratego. Basically, members got together in the sponsor's room at lunchtime and played the various games available which have been purchased with club funds.

After the second six weeks Mr. Paul Gannon became the club sponsor, taking over for Mr. Ward Vaughn, the original organizer of the club, who left to take another job.

For fund raising events, they sold Sweetarts, and nachos at the Fall Festival. Also, they participated in the canned-goods drive at Christmas.

The German way

This year's German Club contained twelve students. The officers were President Christine Larkin, Vice-President Mike Huy, and Secretary Susan Heibich

Even though they were a small group, they accomplished a great deal. At the Fall Festival, they held the annual Gefangenhaus, which is the jail house. They also sold Gummi

Bears and other candy throughout the year. Also there was a foreign language tournament which they participate in every year

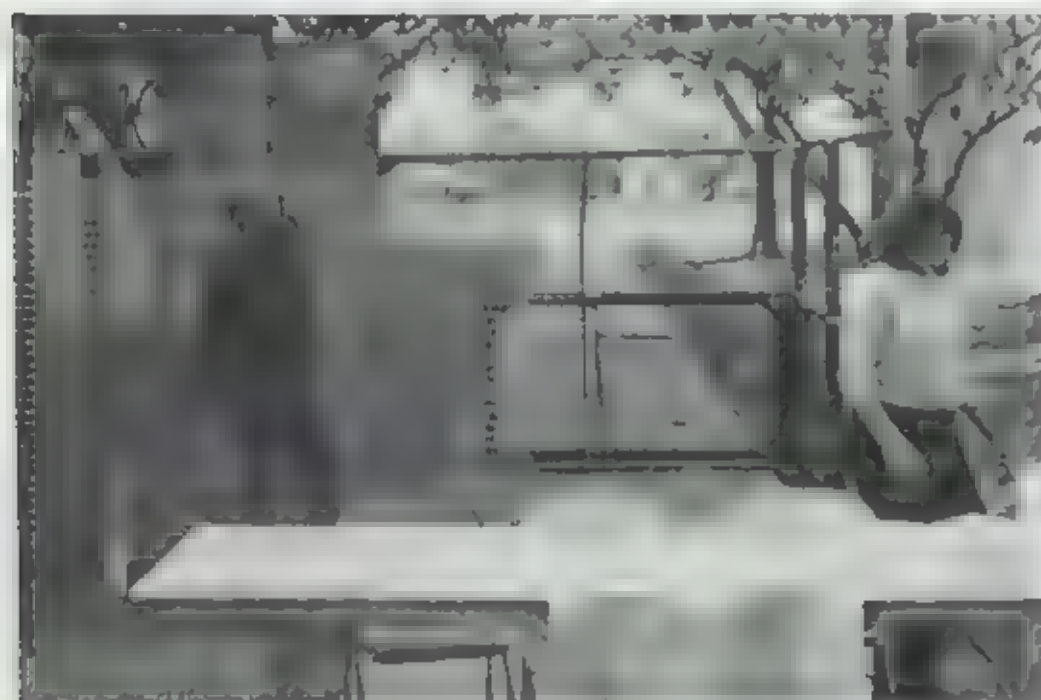

On January 18, twelve students from Andress took a test that was two hours long, in an attempt to win a trip to Germany for one month and go to school in Munich

The Drama Club which consisted of members and their sponsor Mrs. Norma Garrett began their school year by selling M & M's during the month of September. Being the first club to sell M & M's for the school year, they sold every box.

The yearly competitions began the following month. On October 2, a duet-acting team won first place at Jefferson High School. On December 3 and 4, a duet acting team placed in the top twelve out of sixty-six other competing drama teams that met at Eastwood High School. On January 7 and 8, Caroline Jordan and Tyrone Moton made it to the finals and qualified for state which was held in March.

Dance performers

The Orchesis Dance Honorary started off the year with a new sponsor, Miss Debbie Walker.

The dance students' main purpose is to perform for others. They put on a Christmas and Spring Concert.

This year they had bake sales and sold candy to raise money for their dance costumes. They also participated in the annual Fall Festival by putting together a haunted house in the gym.

The officers were president Dena Feinstein; vice president Lisa Fisher; secretary Lisa Borrero; treasurer Zandria Robinson; historians Michelle Parker and Amanda Kelly; costumes Frenchie Manor, Monique Watkins, and Emilce Espino.

Library aides

The Media Club, in its third year of existence, is a hard working group of students who took pride in their work. All the members of this club were under the supervision of head librarian Marguerite Reece. The students worked hard to make their club noticed.

They held dances and candy sales and took part in the Fall Festival. Each student had a great responsibility in taking care of the audio visual equipment, which they were in charge of distributing and collecting. When member Scott Wakefield was asked how he felt about the club this year, he replied "It's a real good club, interesting and enjoyable."

Mrs. Reece commented, "I feel they're the most hard-working club here at Andress."

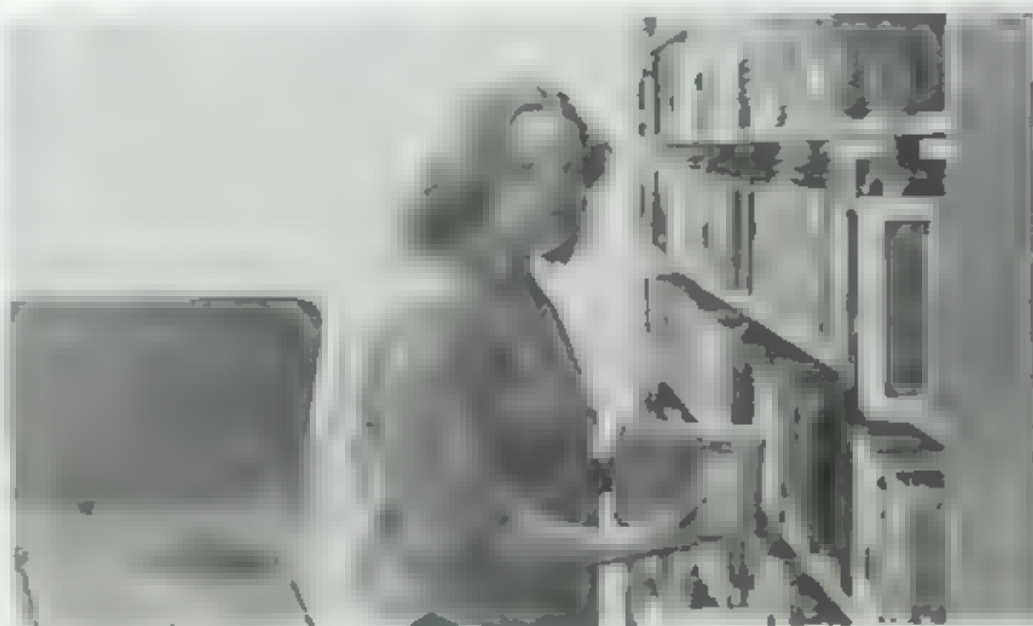

Sheri Ford helps out in the reference room, locating magazines for students to use in research.

Taking a phone call, Grace Ponce helps out behind the check-out desk.

Working together

The Pan-American Forum consisted of approximately twenty-seven members, and their sponsor, Mr. Richard Flores.

The club sponsored two booths at the Fall Festival called the pyramid and the water game. They sold graduation congratulatory cards. These cards were given to graduating seniors by the buyers who wanted to express their best wishes and sentiments. They held bake sales during the month of February and they also held a tree decorating contest in December

The purpose of the Spanish Club is to share cultures with one another and learn about their heritage.

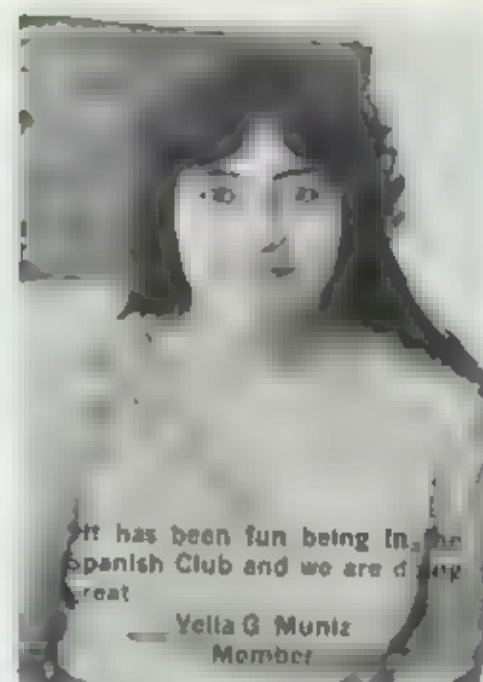

They participated in fund raising events including bake sales, and selling M & M's. At the annual Fall Festival, they sold Bunuelos and Mexican candy.

The club took part in the

DECA, Distributive Education Clubs of America had a relatively busy year

It started with a bake sale during the month of October followed by Halloween-o-grams for Halloween. They sold Tom-Wat Showcases, and sold pickles at the Fall Festival. When December rolled around, DECA members stuffed stockings full of candy and took them over to Hart School for distribution to the elementary students. Then the annual Employer/Employee Banquet was held in February at the Civic Center

The members went to school part-time, then went to work part-time. Some of the places they worked at were Taco Bell, Bag & Save, and Skaggs Alpha Beta

Learning a role

Future Homemakers of America is a national organization. It helps assume a role in society through Home Economics Education in areas of personal growth, family life vocational preparation and community involvement.

Mrs. Gladys Wilson and Miss Jeannette Williams were sponsors of the Future Homemakers of America. The club consisted of twenty-one members. Officers were: Kim Rand, president; Debbie Trejo, vice president; Patty Marin, secretary, and Sandy Gunch as treasurer.

For fundraisers they sold corsages for Homecoming popcorn balls at the Fall Festival, and carnations for Valentine's day. They also had a Christmas Party for senior Citizens in December.

Teaching the way

Future Teachers of America is an organization aimed at those who had an interest in teaching as a profession. Members didn't necessarily have to become a teacher if they joined Future Teachers of America.

Miss Tora Cole was the sponsor of FTA. There were about fifteen students in the club.

The year went very well for the FTA club. They had a pie-throwing contest at the Fall Festival, bake sales, and sponsored the annual teacher switch. They raised money to go to the State Convention in Austin, where members from all over the state got together to combine ideas.

The purpose of Industrial Arts is to train students to become draftsmen. Students learn how to do different kinds of drawings such as electrical drawings, architectural drawings, and machine drafting. It also gives the student an opportunity to draw their dream house.

There were a total of 28 members in the group. Mr. Richard Davis, sponsor, said he would like to have more girls join.

Useful skills

The Auto Mechanics group consisted of three two-hour classes instructed by Mr. Tom Morris. Some of the students were transported to Andress from H E Charles and Terrace Hills by bus

For the third year, and also the last, Rosemary Flores was the only female to have joined Auto Shop

Among the skills learned were how to weld, drop transmissions, change spark plugs, change carburetors and sometimes rebuilding cars altogether

The cars the shop members repaired were provided by the members themselves or fellow students and sometimes even faculty members. Job experience was gained by learning these skills

Preparing for future office

The Vocational Office Education organization known as VOE, gives students a chance to go to school part-time, and get credit for working part-time. The group had approximately 40 members, both seniors and juniors, and their sponsor, Mrs. Jessie Walker.

During the month of November, VOE members sold Christmas ornaments. In January, they sold Stuckey's candy, and in April they sold posters.

The Fall Festival was another good fund raising event with the traditional marriage booth, and they also sold baked goods.

On February 18, the OEA Office Education Association held their annual competitions in shorthand, accounting, typing, and other office skills. Members of VOE competed in those events, and those who placed in the top three were flown to Houston to compete for state. On February 28, the Employer/Employee Banquet was held at the Civic Center.

"Open Arms"

On the night of Dec. 4, 1982, senior Brenda Smith was crowned Andress' nineteenth Military Ball Queen. Teresa Wakefield was selected as lady-in-waiting.

This memorable occasion took place in the Andress cafeteria, which was transformed into a simple, yet elegant scene of red, white, and blue to the theme of "Open Arms."

The ball began when Master of Ceremonies Peggy Gregory introduced the royal representatives. The queen was then crowned by last year's queen, Pam Hootman. Afterward, Brenda read her proclamation which was followed by the Grand March. A dance was held afterward.

"The AQUILA, despite its inexperience, never ceased to amaze me on how we could put out 'unique' papers," commented editor Tim Foster

Inexperience once again bewildered the school paper, with only four returnees in a staff of twenty

This relatively new staff was enthusiastic but it meant time to break them in by teaching them the difference between bylines, cutlines, headlines, and deadlines. Deadlines that usually caused a lot of frustration and yelling

But despite all the hectic moments, the staff stuck with it and worked together to publish a school newspaper the very best they could, with a feeling of satisfaction

Recording our 22nd year

This year's 1982-83 Talon staff consisted of eighteen members whose many hours of hard work and determination in making 249 blank pages into this year's Talon paid off. Although there were times when the staffers honestly thought the book would not be completed by the final deadline (among them Miss Rod) we are all proud to say "We did it!"

At the top of the staff was our advisor, Miss Irma Rodriguez who helped everyone out when those dreaded deadlines came along. Under her was Editor-in-Chief Toshi Navarro; Organizations Editor Mary Hurd and her staff, Sandra Torres, Wendy Williams, Kim Hazelton, and Linda Harrell; Features Editor Angie Segura and her staff, Charles Lloyd, Yvette Villa, Academics Editor Laura Dockray and her staff, Susan Rangel, Karl Mason, and Sandy

White; Sports Editor Shannon Spady and her staff, David Duran, Shannon Kendall, and Jaime Valencia

During the second semester new students were admitted on the staff. Although inexperienced, they helped much as they could. These new members were Melanie Roche, Brian Morris, Jena Taylor, Jack Shinaut, and Judy Krzemien

A tale of Talon . . .

Once upon a time, not long ago, in the land of C Building room 236, there lived a sometimes short-tempered advisor, Miss Irma Rodriguez who was the ruler of the Talon staff. She possessed a power called the reign of reason, which was a certain phrase that made the staffers tremble in their shoes come deadline, if you're not dead, you're going to wish you were!" With this hanging over the heads of the staffers, they worked harder in their chambers, even on Saturdays to please their advisor. But although things may have seemed a little heavy to the staffers and Miss Rod, hope was not lost. They all stuck together, met their deadlines, made Miss Rod happy and finally lived happily ever after.

Camera bugs

Although the editorial staff of the '83 Talon would argue this point, the photographers undoubtedly had the toughest job of all. They not only had to cope with staff members who wanted their photos, they also had to deal with clubs whose members didn't show up at the picture taking, bad weather that caused postponement or cancellation of some. Then there were "normal" problems that occur in the darkroom. When you have five students all trying to get their job done as quickly as possible to get yearbook staffers off their backs

When you take this into consideration, in addition to the fact that they were all pretty much beginners in September they did an extremely fine job

Organization honors staffers

Quill and Scroll, high school's highest journalistic honor, is one of the most underrated organizations in school.

Since the club is made out of the top journalism students from the two publication staffs they rarely had any time for their own activities.

The selection basis for Quill and Scroll includes being a senior, junior, or second semester sophomore, and each must have excelled in their publication work in one way or another.

The members were chosen by sponsor advisor Miss Irma Rodriguez at the beginning of the second semester. The induction of the members was held in late May.

The group's major activity was a publications banquet held annually in May. New members were initiated at this time. This year, foreign exchange student Hiromi Miyazaki, who was not at An dress long enough to qualify for membership was made an honorary member for her work on Aquila staff.

Another year ends . . .

This year's Talon Staff was just great. Even though we had many newcomers to our crew, we all stuck together through thick and thin situations, and made this year a good one

I cannot express in words how much I'd like to thank our advisor, Miss Rodriguez, and the whole staff for working so hard, and for the support in making my position as Editor an easier one for me

Being Editor is not as easy as it may seem to some. It is nerve-racking, very frustrating, and takes up a great deal of one's time. But in the end when we see what a staff of hard working students can produce, it is worth every single minute we put in

I sincerely hope everyone enjoys this year's Talon which could have never existed without the student body and staff here at Andress

Once again I'd like to express my gratitude to Miss Rod, who was always there to help me and the staff, and of course, much thanks goes to the staff and photographers for a job well done

Editor-in-Chief

Ruth, Kmart girl Benie + Ruth Darleen + Wayne, Lawrence Kirk, Rob, Willie Pick one!

I cannot express in words how wonderful it has been being your friend, but I can say you have been a wonderful friend to me. Giving me rides to the local disco, and even to the Rec. boy if that isn't a friend I don't know what is. Seriously this is your day (Graduation) and I hope that I can help make it the best day of your life. Our friendship will always be on top because you're a great guy (I mean girl Ha! Ha!) and I'm great too, and when ~~two~~ people have that much in common they will always be friends. Also what ever you decide to do in life do it with great anticipation go for it! What ever your dreams are make them turn into reality. I just can't say how wonderful of a friend you have been to me. and I hope that God will grant all your wishes, you stay the same and you'll never get rid of me. You're a very special friend to me and I can't possibly let you not be a part of me. (Even though I don't need the weight Ha! Ha!) Take care and God Bless you!

P.S. You can always count on me Ha! Ha!
